

GERMAN REPLY DELIVERED TO AMBASSADOR

GERARD RECEIVED KAISER'S ANSWER LAST NIGHT—REACH U. S. TOMORROW.

MAY PROVE UNSATISFACTORY

If Unofficial Outline Is Followed In Text Critical Stage Will Be At Hand.

(Associated Press)
Washington, July 9—The reply of the imperial government to the United States' note regarding the Lusitania and submarine warfare was delivered to Ambassador Gerard at Berlin last night.

The reply should reach Washington tomorrow or Sunday and President Wilson is expected to return from Cornish and lay it before the cabinet.

May Be Unsatisfactory.
If the text bears out the unofficial outlines which indicate that it will be unsatisfactory to the United States, another critical stage in the relations between the United States and Germany will be at hand.

Information has come to this government that Germany will cite the case of the Armenian, on which about twenty-one American lives were lost, to show the difficulty with which she is confronted in attempting to "visit and search" suspected merchantmen, and will raise the point that the departure of the vessel from Newport News was in clear violation of the neutrality laws of the United States.

Will Prove It British Ship.

Germany is also expected to quote the statement of the British government to Ambassador Page, as communicated by the latter to the state department, that the Armenian was on "admiralty business," to show that she was actually in the service of Great Britain. Further, it will point out that the mules on the ship, intended for the British army, were loaded under the direction of the British army officers, and that the men engaged to care for them on the voyage over were employed by representatives of the British government.

Latest Feats Destroy Argument.

On the other hand, this government is prepared to use the illustration of the Armenian, combined with that of the Anglo-Californian, to its own advantage, believing that they suggest a method by which the cause of controversy between the two governments may be eliminated and the lives of non-combatants safeguarded.

The official report on the Armenian case stated that the vessel was shelled by the submarine when she tried to escape, and was not torpedoed until later. In the case of the Anglo-Californian, the vessel was shelled repeatedly by the submarine, and was not torpedoed.

Puts New Phase on Issue.

These developments are regarded with interest by officials of this government. They indicate by placing long range guns on her submarines Germany has converted her undersea boats, for all practical purposes, into surface war vessels.

Furthermore, in the opinion of officials of this government, the equipment of submarines with guns makes it possible for them to stop a merchant vessel without sinking it, as was not the case when the undersea boats were armed only with torpedoes. The sinking of the Lusitania was a case in point. The German view was that the submarine had no way to stop the Lusitania, because of its great speed, except by firing a torpedo.

One Woman Impersonates All Characters Of Famous Plays

The appearance of Gay Zenola MacLaren will be a special feature of Rock River Assembly. Miss MacLaren will entertain on Friday, August 13.

She is America's most original entertainer presenting imitative recitals of famous plays. For one person to satisfactorily present an entire play with its many characters of varying types is a task that would seem well nigh impossible, and that Miss MacLaren is a genius along this particular line of character presentations is readily admitted by all who hear her. In order to do this work, one gift is absolutely necessary, with out which years of study and train

FIRE ON MINNEHAHA REPORTED ALMOST EXTINGUISHED NOW

TRANSPORT WILL NOT BE ALLOWED TO DOCK UNTIL BLAZE IS OUT.

HOLT MAY BE IMPLICATED

However, Advices From Ship Do Not Substantiate That Theory.

(Associated Press)
New York, July 9—The Atlantic transport liner Minnehaha was within 20 miles of Halifax this morning and the fire in her hold is said to be practically extinguished. There is nothing in the advices received from her to substantiate the theory that Frank Holt, suicide bomb maker and assailant of J. P. Morgan, is implicated.

Can Not Dock.

The Minnehaha will not be allowed to dock until the fire has been completely extinguished owing to danger to other shipping in the harbor.

Whether Holt is responsible or not is problematical. The explosion occurred on the Minnehaha on Wednesday, the day on which Frank Holt, the assailant of J. P. Morgan prophesied a steamer should sink, "God willing." Fire followed the explosion and the Minnehaha, which has on board 15,000 tons of munitions and foodstuffs for the allies, but no passengers, has turned back and is racing for Halifax, while her crew is endeavoring to keep the fire from reaching the cargo of high explosives.

The only information received by the offices of the International Mercantile Marine regarding the explosion and fire is contained in two wireless dispatches from Captain Claret, commander of the Minnehaha. The first of these dispatches was received at the company's piers Wednesday night. This message said: "Minnehaha proceeding toward Halifax. Fire in No. 2 hold. Not serious at present. Will keep you informed of position. At 5:30 p. m., 7th inst., 570 miles southeast of Halifax."

At 12:30 p. m. Thursday the second agram was received by way of Cape Race, Newfoundland:

"Fire caused by explosion. Now controlled by suffocation and steam. Much smoke in holds. Deem it expedient to make Halifax. Due off Chebucto Head about 9 a. m. Friday. Advise agents."

Chebucto Head is at the head of Halifax harbor.

Holt's Prophecy Recalled.
While details of the nature of the explosion on the Minnehaha are not yet available, Frank Holt's prophecy in his letter to his wife was at once

ARREST TWO MORE FOR 1868 MURDER

BAINWOOD BROTHERS, AGED 60, TAKEN BY IOWA OFFICERS.

ACCUSED OF $90,000 THEFT

(Associated Press)
Bedford, Ia., July 9—James and John Bainwood, brothers, aged nearly sixty, were arrested today in connection with the case known as "The Mystery of the Murdered Cattleman and His Son, or $90,000 Buried Treasure."

The story of the murder in 1868 came to light yesterday with the arrest of Bates Huntsman, aged 70, and Henry Scribner. The money was never located.

The arrests grew out of a suit by Samuel Anderson of Lucas, Ia., for a quarter interest in $90,000 in gold stolen from the cattleman and buried at the time of the commission of the crime, and dug up recently. Anderson owns land adjoining the men arrested and had contracted to dig up the treasure twelve years ago, but the others repudiated their agreement, he alleges. The cattleman was slain by a counterfeiting gang, with which the defendants are alleged to have had relations.

OFFICIALS' QUARREL RAISES CRISIS IN BRITISH WAR DEPT.

LORD KITCHENER OR LLOYD-GEORGE MUST RETIRE IT IS REPORTED

BRITISH CONQUER S. W. AFRICA

German Forces There Have Surrendered Unconditionally Says London

(Associated Press)
The British press controversy over the disagreement between Viscount Haldane, former Minister of War, and Lloyd-George, Minister of Munitions, grows in bitterness.

It is said if Gen. von Donop, Master General of Ordnance, does not resign, Lloyd-George will retire; while if von Donop does resign, his chief, Secretary of War, Lord Kitchener, will do likewise.

Hundreds of thousands of Britains cheered Lord Kitchener today as he motored through the streets of London to Guild Hall where he delivered an address inaugurating the special recruiting campaign.

The Russian forces are being attacked at several points west and northwest of Warsaw, while German troops suffered heavily near Jedlro-jetz, Petrograd says. But near Boli-mow, west of Warsaw, the Teutons, aided by gases, stormed the first line of Russian trenches, where fighting continues.

Pursue Austrians.

The Austrian forces which were defeated at Lublin are being pursued. A Petrograd correspondent says that the Austrian check was due to a tactical blunder on the part of Archduke Ferdinand which cost the Austrians 15,000 men.

General Botha, a commander of the British forces, has completed the conquest of German Southwest Africa by accepting the surrender of all German military forces. They numbered about 3,000. The area of the German colony is 322,000 square miles.

The unconditional surrender of the German forces, releases for service elsewhere the South African British troops, London says. German East Africa remains unconquered.

The Wilson liner Guido, bound to Archangle, Russia, from Hull, has been sunk by a submarine. The crew was saved.

Sanguinary clashes yesterday from the river Aisne to the Vosges are reported, both the Germans and French claiming advances, and each claiming the capture of hundreds of prisoners.

Missing 'Jewels' Found In Box Of Paper Flowers

Concession People Find Diamonds Supposed To Have Disappeared Here

The chamois bag containing diamonds valued at $600 supposed to have been lost in this city Monday has been found, according to a letter received last night by Chief of Police Tourtellott. The gems belonged to Mrs. C. Carter who with her husband conducted a stand on Galena avenue Monday. Mrs. Carter had placed the bag containing the diamonds in her pocketbook and after opening the stand placed the pocketbook in a box containing artificial flowers and in opening the pocketbook to take out change it is supposed the chamois bag fell out and worked its way to the bottom of the box unnoticed. Later in the day Mrs. Carter discovered her loss and being unable to find her jewels supposed they had dropped and were picked up by some one. Before leaving the city Tuesday for Bloomington she reported the loss to Chief Tourtellott and offered a reward of $50 for their recovery. On opening up at Bloomington the chamois bag was discovered in the bottom of the flower box and they immediately notified the chief.

BIG STRIKE AT STATE COLONY IS THREATENED

LOCAL LATHERS SAY THEY WILL TIE UP WORK BECAUSE OF NON-UNION MEN.

COMMITTEE WILL SEE FIELDS

Lathers Demand Discharge of Two Men—May Call Off All the Union Workers.

According to officials of the Dixon local of the International Lathers' Union a strike of all union men working on the buildings of the Illinois State Industrial Colony for the Improvable Epileptics, north of the city, is imminent, unless two alleged non-union lathers, who are said to be at work on the buildings, are not removed from the work at once.

From an officer of the Dixon Lathers' union today the Telegraph learned that a committee has been appointed to wait upon Supt. Fields, who is in charge of the work for Allen & Son of Peoria, the general contractors, and it is stated by this official that unless the conditions they ask for are complied with a strike of all the union men on the job will be called—including carpenters, plumbers, electricians, masons, etc.

Men Alleged Non-Union.

The grievance of the lathers, as alleged by the local union men, is that Dan O'Neill of Chicago, sub-contractor for the lathing of the state buildings, has imported two men whom it is charged are non-union, to place the metal lath used in the structures.

The local lathers claim that the contract which Allen & Son have with the State Board of Administration, provides that none but union men shall be used on the work and that, therefore, they will ask the co-operation of all of the other unions represented on the work unless the two men complained of are discharged at once.

The construction calls for about 40 cubic yards of concrete and 6873 pounds of steel. The structure was designed by Co. Supt. of Highways L. B. Neighbour.

ORNAMENTAL LIGHTS.

Ornamental lights form a good way of feeling the pulse of an American town.

If a town has large quantities of cluster lights on its business streets, its pulse is strong and healthy and it has a commercial club which would as soon grab a factory away from some other town, as eat a piece of pie.

If, however, a town is filled with dark canyons at night, with over-worked electric lights trying to excavate holes in the blackness at street corners, it is usually in a comatose condition and the secretary of the Commercial club is working overtime to collect enough dues to pay his salary.

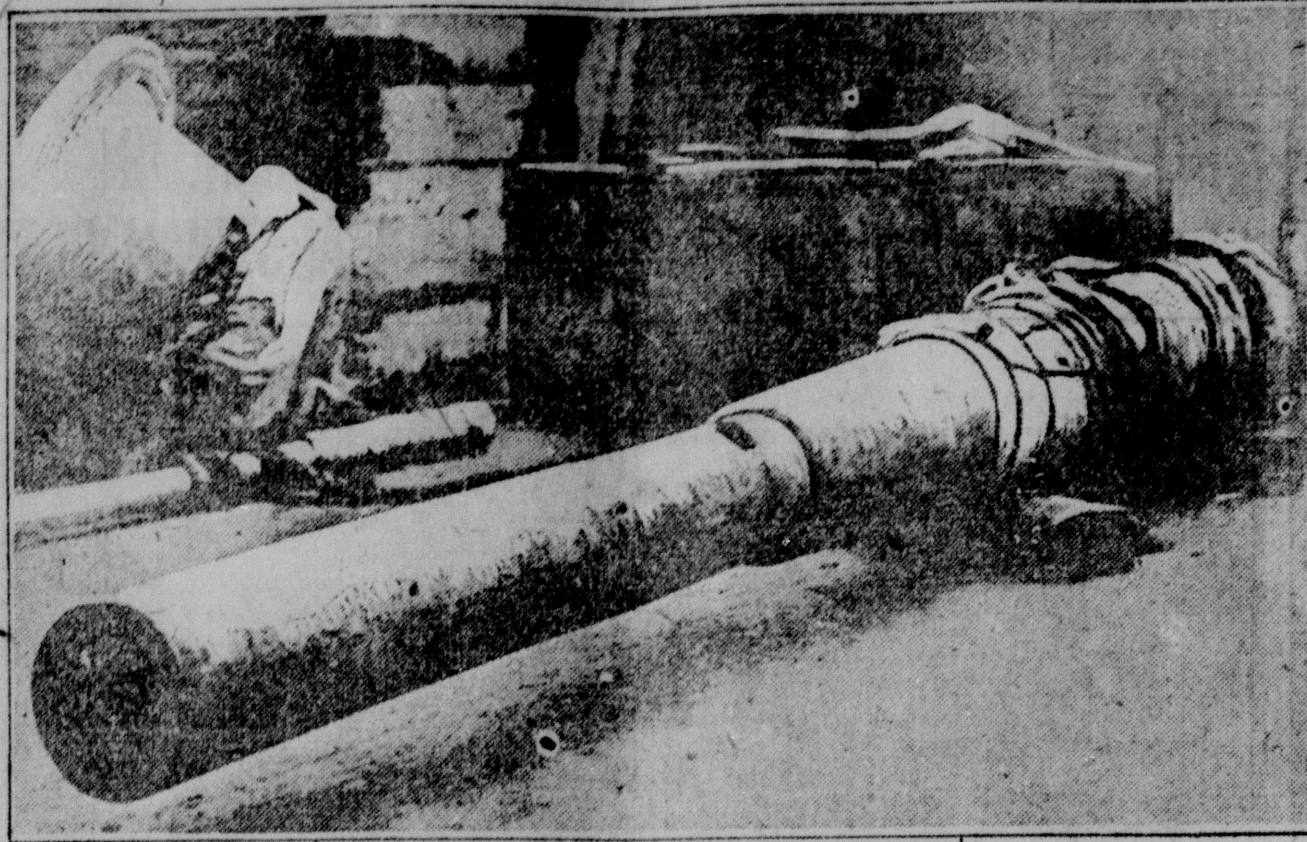

This is not because ornamental lights can bring a diseased town to life, but because they are the latest style in municipal hustle. They give the city something to brag about. There are now something over 1,000 Great White Ways in this country, thanks to the committee boosters which have backed the reluctant merchants of hundreds of towns down in the cellar and have refused to let them come up until they have subscribed for two large iron posts each.

Pretty soon there will be so many ornamental lights in this country that they will not be worth bragging about. However, the town that has them will still be able to laugh at the morgue, divided into wards and precincts, that hasn't any. And one by one the sleepy cities will rub their eyes in a startled way and exclaim, "Goodness, let's get lighted up and shut off these coroner jokes." Shortly after this the new style of lighting will be as universal as the Commercial club itself. Then some genius will discover some new test of hustle like the down-town window box, or the city manager, or the art censor for sign boards, and the contest will begin all over again.

The reason why American cities improve so greatly is because some city is always trying to get the jump on the bunch by adopting something to brag about, thus forcing other places to adopt the same thing, or better, in order to keep from blushing about it. Because of this relentless competition some city in this fair land is going to adopt a leak-proof, politicianless government some day and about three years later America will stop apologizing about its city halls.

AT LINCOLN PARK SUNDAY

Team Is Working Its Way to Pacific Coast to Visit Exposition

Manager Valle of the Dixon Home Guards has cancelled the game he had arranged for Sunday with the Freeport Independents in order that he might bring to Dixon Sunday the strongest team that has appeared here in recent years—a team composed wholly of players of the "busted" Bi State league.

The team has been organized by a Waterman promoter and it is planned to work their way to the coast where they will take in the exposition. Games will be played in all of the larger towns on the Lincoln Highway, starting at Rochelle tomorrow where the Dixon team will be their opponents.

Sunday in Dixon
The two teams will come to Dixon Saturday night and will stage the second of their series of three games at Lincoln Park, Tuesday in all probability the deciding game of the series will be played in Rochelle, as the people of that city are crazy for base ball, and having no team of their own, they have asked the Dixon bunch to stage the two games there. The team will undoubtedly be the strongest the Home Guards will be called upon to face this season, and beyond all doubt a large crowd of fans will be on hand at 3 o'clock Sunday afternoon when play starts.

On Two-Cent Passenger Rates

The farmers of this nation are vitally interested in railroad rates and equity between passenger and freight rates is especially important to the man who follows the plow for the farmer travels very little but he is a heavy contributor to the freight revenues. Some of the states have a two cent passenger rate and whatever loss is incurred is recovered through freight revenue. The justice of such a procedure was recently passed upon by the Supreme Court of West Virginia and the decision is so far-reaching that we have asked L. E. Johnson, president of the Norfolk and Western Railway whose road contested the case to briefly review the suit. Mr. Johnson said in part:

"Some ten years ago, passenger fares were fixed by the legislatures of a large number of states at two cents a mile. As a basis for such economic legislation, no examination was made of the cost of doing the business so regulated, nor was any attention given to the fact whether such a rate would yield to the railway companies an adequate or any net return upon the capital invested in conducting this class of business.

"Such a law was passed in West Virginia in 1907. The Norfolk and Western Railway Company put the rate into effect and maintained it for two years. Its accounting during these two years showed that two cents a mile per passenger barely paid the out-of-pocket cost and nothing was left to pay any return on capital invested. It sought relief from the courts. Expert accountants for both the State and the Railway Company testified that the claims of the railroad were sustained by the facts. Two cents did not pay the cost of carrying a passenger a mile. The State, however, contended that the railroad was earning enough surplus on its state freight business to give a fair return upon the capital used in its passenger as well as its freight business. For the purposes of the case, the railroad did not deny this, but held to its contention that the State could not segregate its passenger business for rate fixing without allowing a rate that would be sufficient to pay the cost of doing business and enough to give some return upon the capital invested in doing the business regulated. This was the issue presented to the Supreme Court. Its decision responds to the judgment of the fair-minded sentiment of the country. The Supreme Court says that, even though a railroad earns a surplus on a particular commodity by charging reasonable rates, that affords no reason for compelling it to haul another's person or property for less than cost. The surplus from a reasonable rate properly belongs to the railway company. If the surplus is earned from an unreasonable rate then that rate should be reduced. The State may not even up by requiring the railroad to carry other traffic for nothing or for less than cost.

The decision is a wholesome one and demonstrates that the ordinary rules of fair dealing apply to railway companies. The fact that one makes a surplus on his wheat crop would never be urged as a reason for compelling him to sell his cotton at less than cost. It would not satisfy the man who wanted bread to be told that its high price enabled the cotton manufacturer to get his raw product for less than cost. In this case the court reaffirmed the homely maxim that each tub must stand upon its own bottom."

Hear of Indian Basketry

The Sinsissippi Campfire Girls spent a very delightful afternoon yesterday with Mrs. Louis Petre who told them of the basketry work of the Indian, illustrating with ten baskets of her own handiwork ten different stitches the Indians use in the making of their baskets, and speaking of the good that is being accomplished by the white people in encouraging the Indians in the making of the finer baskets, the art of which bade fair to be lost as the squaws of this generation were interested in the making of the coarser baskets to catch the eye and money of the tourist. Mrs. Petre visited one of the schools in Nebraska where the art of basketry is taught the young Indian girls, and imparted to the Campfire Girls much of interest that she learned there. The gathering of the material for the baskets was also dwelt upon by Mrs. Petre, who mentioned the interesting fact that it is the material gathered on the rainy day which lends itself to the making of the more beautiful baskets. Mrs. Petre will give a talk some time later in the summer on the totems of the Alaskan Indian.

Mrs. Lawrence Deeter of Chicago, Mrs. Jacob Egler, Mrs. Joseph Petersberger, and Mrs. Mae Brookner Cupp were guests outside of the Campfire organization.

The hostess served very delicious refreshments in the course of the afternoon.

FRECKLES

Don't Hide Them With a Veil; Remove Them With the Othine Prescription.

This prescription for the removal of freckles was written by a prominent physician and is usually so successful in removing freckles and giving a clear, beautiful complexion, that it is sold by druggists under guarantee to refund themoney if it fails.

Don't hide your freckles under a veil; get an ounce of othine and remove them. Even the first few applications should show a wonderful improvement, some of the lighter freckles vanishing entirely.

Kill the Winter Fly;
Do Your Swatting
Now; Don't Delay

Do your fly swatting early. That's the way Miss Jean Dawson, director of the Cleveland anti-fly campaign, modified the familiar slogan to accomplish such miraculous results for her city. To kill a winter fly is better than to kill a million later in the summer, according to Miss Dawson, and her work in Cleveland proves that she knows what she is talking about.

No matter if it is still cold weather and only one fly has been brave enough to show itself, the time to start the war against the flies is now. Those that live through the winter are few, and that's just the reason efforts made now can be so effective. Perhaps there are many people who have not seen a fly yet this year, but there are flies and plenty of them, as the millions will prove later unless the few are destroyed.

When Dr. Dawson—for this woman anti-fly general can write a Ph. D. after her name as professor of civic biology at the Cleveland Normal school—began talking about swatting the fly the people of Cleveland thought her remarks were a little unseasonable.

"We can't find any flies," they said. Dr. Dawson told them to look in the cracks and crevices of their attics and basements and stables and sheds. They looked. There were a few flies.

"But why trouble ourselves about a few half dead insects?" they objected. Then came Miss Dawson's astounding figures in proof of her plan. The children and grandchildren and later descendants of a pair of flies breeding from early spring to late fall can be numbered only by using a string of twenty-one digits, she said. The number she gave was 131,010 quadrillion flies, enough to cover the entire earth forty-seven feet deep. Of course the flies, like human beings, are troubled with a high death rate, especially of infants, and no mother fly has ever been able to have all her eggs hatch into flies, which in turn reared unbroken families.

AUTO HORN SAVED HIM FROM MOUNTAIN LIONS

He Thought His Last Hour Had Come, but Luckily He Had the "Honk-Honk" Weapon.

Sacramento, Cal.—Charles Jackson, driver of the mail stage between Markleville, Cal., and Gardnerville, Nev., has found a new use for automobile horns. As a weapon against attacks by mountain lion Jackson says an automobile horn has no equal, and Jackson is in a position to know.

While driving to Gardnerville the other day Jackson was confronted by two mountain lions, made savage by heavy snows and the resultant lack of food. The brutes disputed the right of way with Jackson, who was unarmed. The horses took fright and became almost unmanageable.

"I thought my last moment had come," said Jackson. "The lions were preparing to leap upon me or the horses and that would have been the end of us both. I yelled, cursed and prayed at the top of my voice, but the lions were not a bit scared. They came creeping toward me and the frightened, shivering team."

"Suddenly I remembered I had a good noise producer in a package under the wagon seat. It was an automobile horn I was bringing in for the postmaster. I grabbed that horn and pressed the bulb as hard as I could. The 'honk-honk' of that horn did more than all my yelling, for the lions turned tail and fled down the hill as though pursued by a thousand demons."

"I'll either carry a gun or an auto horn on the rest of my trips this winter," added Jackson.

Well Answered

A little boy and a little girl were left at the table after their elders had departed. The boy took up a piece of pie in his fingers and began to eat it.

"Tut! tut!" said his sister, "Better eat with your fork—not with your fingers!"

"Well," said the boy, his mouth full, "fingers were made before knives and forks!"

"Maybe," said the girl, "but I guess yours weren't."

A Natural Mistake

The aviator's wife was taking her first trip with her husband in his airship.

"Wait a moment, George," she said. "I'm afraid we will have to go down again."

"What's wrong?" asked the husband. "I believe I have dropped one of my pearl buttons off my jacket. I think I can see it glistening on the ground."

"Keep your seat, my dear," said the aviator. "That's Lake Windermere."

A camera operated by electricity has been invented for lowering into oil wells to photograph the conditions surrounding broken tools.

WHY BOYS LEAVE FARM.

In the current issue of Farm and Fireside, an Ohio contributor makes the following interesting explanation of why so many boys leave the farm:

Let me try to show that the fathers are to blame for keeping in the rut that runs back to the days when all work was done by hand.

The trees were chopped and cleared by hand and the land prepared for seeding with the old fashioned crude tools, the crops planted, cultivated and harvested in the same way.

These ancestral farmers were compelled to work fifteen hours or more each dry while doing this pioneering, and the same fifteen-hour-a-day grind has been handed down from generation to generation ever since.

This plan of doing two days' work in one will no longer be tolerated by farm boys when they come to know that the mason, the carpenter, the shopmen and plumbers work but little more than half of the farm day.

So, too, are the mothers to blame. Their sons must become teachers, office men, clerks, teachers—jobs that will allow white hands, fine clothes and a spruce, civilized appearance. Also the girls are too often advised by their mothers to marry city fellows.

Don't do it any more, mothers! If you could follow your boy a month after he reaches the city you would shed tears of regret the rest of your life.

Now tell the truth, Mr. Farmer. Are you giving the boy the opportunity you might? Remember this is the twentieth century, not the eighteenth. And couldn't you make life a little more pleasant?

Have a little more sociability, give your sons a share, let them do some of the business. I know a farmer who would never let his boys work a team. They used the hoes. There were four of them, and they all left home when they were eighteen. Make the boys confidants, ask their advice, make farming interesting, dignified and honorable."

FOLLY OF THE CENSORSHIP.

Some of the English statesmen are making complaint concerning the policy of suppressing the war news. They are beginning to realize that censorship of information is productive of more evils than unrestrained publicity.

England had no inkling of the truth concerning her danger until German ships began throwing shells into her seaport towns. Her realization of the whole truth did not come until Germany had dropped bombs in the city of London.

For months English enlistment lagged because the people of England were denied the actual facts regarding the war. The censorship news recorded nothing but successes for the Allies. The navy and the regular army, apparently, were taking care of the situation. Apparently there was no cause for extraordinary recruiting.

Now that the truth is known, there is a rush to volunteer. Kitchener's army, it is reported, has reached enormous proportions. But it has become formidable only of late. When it was decided to stop the German advance into France it did not exist. Its soldiers, deceived by a censored press, were going about their regular work of playing tennis and golf.

If the Allies are defeated in the gigantic European struggle they can attribute their failure to the silly censorship. Its activity created them of men when recruits were urgently needed.

TRIMMING THE APPROPRIATION.

Governor Dunne succeeded in trimming the appropriations made by the 49th general assembly a little more than two million dollars. Nevertheless the appropriation for carrying on the affairs of the state the coming two years remains at the huge figure of $44,000,000, the largest appropriation that ever faced the Illinois taxpayers.

These figures recall a speech made by the governor in his pre-election campaign when he decried the extravagance of a former administration. What he termed extravagance then he would probably call necessity now, for figures will show it is costing more money to run the state now than it did a few years ago. But the governor is not alone to blame if expenses go up. The people demand changes, improvements and commissions. As the old saying runs, "It takes money to make the mare go," so it takes money to make the state go.

Whether or not the governor's pruning knife struck in the right place depends on the view taken of it and the people doing the viewing. Those whose appropriations will suffer will criticize the governor. The people in general who pay the bills would have been better satisfied if he had trimmed the appropriations a few more millions than he did.

Farm Hand Kills Daughter of Employer and Suicide.

Rockford, Ill., July 9.—John Spangler, a farm hand, twenty-five years old, murdered Bonita Gates, fifteen years old, daughter of his employer, William Gates, with a razor on the Gates farm, near Holcomb. Spangler later was found dead in a field, having committed suicide.

The tragedy was revealed in piecemeal. Spangler had been a farm hand employed by Gates for two years. He was twenty-five years old and had been a good worker. Bonita used to see him daily. They had talked frequently together and, according to the New Rochelle police, who learned part of the story, Spangler had fallen in love.

The Gates home was deserted the morning of the tragedy except for Bonita. Spangler didn't go into the fields. He waited until the father had left and then entered the house. Bonita was "dusting up" in the front room. When he left she was dead. The body was discovered by her father, William Gates, when he returned from work in the evening. The body of Spangler was found by the father in a field. A razor was used in both slayings.

IS THIS STORY NATURE FAKE?

Collie Dog Walks 700 Miles to Its Old Home.

Bloomington, Ill., July 9.—When Delmar Link, a farmer of Greenbush township, Fulton county, removed last spring to a farm near Tower City, N. D., he took with him a collie dog, which had been owned by the family for a number of years.

Shortly after reaching the new home the dog disappeared. This week it returned to the old farm, presumably walking the entire distance of 700 miles. The instinct of the animal in finding its way back after making the first trip by train was regarded as extraordinary.

"Tell Me the Secret"

"How do you make such delicious muffins? Mine are always so dry. And if I make the batter thin they fall. How do you do it?"

"I make them about as you do, only I use K C Baking Powder. Mine always turn out well, so it must be the baking powder."

It is the baking powder. To make muffins, cakes and pastry rich and moist, yet light and feathery, a modern double acting baking powder must be used—one that will give off leavening gas in the oven as well as in the mixing bowl.

KC BAKING POWDER

is really a blend of two baking powders, one of which starts to raise as soon as moisture is added. The other is inactive until heat is applied. This sustains the raise until your muffins, biscuits or cake is done.

K C Baking Powder costs less than the old fashioned quick acting kinds, yet you need use no more and it is superior to them in every way.

MRS. ROLAND MORTON DIED IN FARGO, N. D.

DEATH TOOK YOUNG WIFE AS SHE AWAITED HER HUSBAND'S RETURN.

Mrs. N. Mosholder of this city has received a letter from Mrs. Margaret Morton of Fargo, N. D., formerly of Dixon, telling of the sudden death of her daughter-in-law, Mrs. Roland Morton, at Fargo on Saturday night, June 12. Mrs. Morton Jr., who was married to the former Dixon young man in Chicago last fall, had remained up later than usual that night in order to meet her husband, who had been transacting business at Killdeer, N. D., and who had telegraphed her that he would be home at 1 o'clock on Sunday morning.

Mrs. Morton Sr. had retired while her daughter-in-law was heating water for the bath, and she did not awaken until about midnight. She remained awake until after 1, in order that she might greet her son, but when that hour passed and Roland did not appear, she arose and went downstairs. A bright light was burning in the dining room, but Mrs. Morton Jr. was not there, and later the young wife's body was found on the floor in the kitchen. The gas was burning, but none had escaped, and it is thought that death resulted from heart failure. Burial took place at Oshkosh, Wis.

HOWLAND TOOK TRAIN AT DIXON WEDNESDAY. MORN SAYS MOUCK

BRAKEMAN OF NORTHWESTERN TRAIN SAW MURDERED MAN GET ON HERE.

(Special to Telegraph)

Sterling, July 9.—Bert Howland, the Sterling man who was murdered in Clinton, Ia., Wednesday noon, spent Tuesday night in Dixon and left there on the 10:15 a.m. train Wednesday morning in company with two men who tried to induce him to leave the train at Sterling and who, failing to do so, got off. Howland went to Clinton where less than an hour after he arrived he met his death.

Information to this effect has been obtained from Robert Mouck of Morrison, Northwestern passenger brakeman, who was on the train which Howland took from Dixon, and who witnessed the efforts of his friends, whose names the trainman did not know, to persuade him to get off the train at Sterling. Mouck also states that three men jumped off the "blind baggage" of the train as it stopped at Clinton.

The above is all the new information gained in the mysterious murder. "Pigie Ray," a former Sterling character, was questioned at Clinton during the inquest yesterday but it was unable to find that he knew anything of Howland's presence in that city. The jury held that Howland met his death at about 12:15 o'clock Wednesday noon by unknown hands.

The remains were brought to Sterling last evening and funeral services were held this afternoon at the home of the murdered man's sister, Mrs. W. J. Sowles.

Five Point of View

In a Great Western Railway carriage on the way up to London, a youth had disturbed and annoyed the other passengers by loud and foolish remarks during a great part of the journey. As the train passed Howell Lunatic Asylum he remarked:

"I often think how nice the asylum looks from the railway."
"Some day," growled an old gentleman, "you will probably have occasion to remark how nice the railway looks from the asylum."

Dramatic Notes

FAMILY THEATRE.

For the latter portion of this week a vaudeville bill par excellence will be presented at the popular Family theatre, headed by the no less feature than the Eight Forget-Me-Nots direct from the Majestic theatre in Chicago. They are a bevy of young attractive beauties who offer a routine of song and dance with striking wardrobe changes. Much is expected from this engagement in Dixon and if the patrons of the Family have anything to say, this will not be their last appearance here. The program also includes the famous BaJork Brothers, also a product of the leading Chicago theatres who offer a pantomimic absurdity, with Charlie Chaplin's "double" in quaint antics which are mirth provokers of the first order. They are finished performers and do smart work with an ease and finish, with comedy interspersed throughout that makes it most enjoyable.

Pictures for tonight are Poisoned by Jealousy in two parts, and Jack Dalton in a comedy entitled Curses.

Mrs. John Kelly of Franklin Grove was a Dixon caller yesterday.

Mrs. Wesley Beach was here from Ashton Thursday.

Mrs. Bert Smice returned last evening from a short visit in Chicago.

Mrs. Clara Gasman is here from Chicago for a visit with relatives and friends.

PREMIER BORDEN DECLARES CANADA CAN RAISE AN ARMY OF HALF A MILLION

PREMIER BORDEN SIR JOSEPH POPE

Interviewed just before he sailed aboard the White Star steamer Adriatic to spend six weeks in England and France, Sir Robert Borden, premier of Canada, said: "Some of the time I shall spend with government heads planning stronger co-operation in war supply matters and some I shall spend visiting our brave Canadian troops. Canada will continue to send men to the front until her limit is reached. It will not be difficult to raise half a million men. There have been over 10,000 casualties in the Canadian ranks, and the wounded are in scores of hospitals in England and France, and I am going to make it my business to visit as many as I can." In the accompanying illustration are shown Sir Robert and Sir Joseph Pope, secretary of the Interior of Canada, just before the ship sailed.

SIZE DOES NOT ALWAYS COUNT

There Have Been Many Men of Small Stature Who Have Made Good.

"You can't tell by the look of a frog how far he can jump."

That old and crude philosophy is as applicable to men as to frogs.

A story in the Star recently told of the arrival at the Union Station of four men, three of them alert, well dressed, impressive looking. The fourth wore a battered old gabardine, frayed at the buttonholes. His manner was timid and retiring. In size he was insignificant.

He was a little-great man, Dr. Chas. H. Mayo, one of the greatest surgeons the world has ever known.

John B. Gough, the great platform orator, used to tell a story about himself, how he arrived late at a hall in Glasgow, where he was to speak. The place was packed. He could not get in.

To the crowd wedged into the front entrance he told that he must get in, he was Gough, the speaker. They looked at him, he was an undersized man, and laughed. They imagined that Gough, the great orator, must be a tall man.

He went to a side window, hoping to be able to crowd in there. It was already jammed full, and they, too, laughed when he told them he was John B. Gough.

Finally he went to a rear door and told the man on guard there that he was Gough.

"Yes, five or six other men have already told me that," the watchman said. Gough gave him a shilling to pass him in to the stage and after the lecture the doorkeeper went to him and said:

"Well, Gough, you're like a singed cat; better than you look."

Many men who do great things are small in stature and insignificant looking. Nearly all of them would pass unnoticed in a crowd.

Gen. Sir John French, Field Marshal in command of the British forces in France, "the incomparable Ney" of the British Army, is described by Herbert Corey as "short and squat in stature, a ludicrous figure on horseback, and not at all the sort of man in appearance one expects a cavalry leader to be."

And he is "quiet and unassuming." They are all—the men who do great things.

Lloyd-George, British Chancellor of the Exchequer, one of the great men of England, is described as follows in Collier's Weekly:

"A short, stocky man, about the size of LaFollette, there was nothing distinguished in his appearance." He is known as "the little Welsh lawyer."

Lord Roberts, a great general, was known as "Little Bobs."

Grant was short and stocky. Lord Nelson "the greatest sea fighter the world has ever seen," was undersized and delicate. Napoleon was "the Little Corporal."

Stephen A. Douglas was "the little Giant." Harriman and Jay Gould, wizards of railway finance, were undersized. So is John D. Rockefeller.

The list might be extended to columns, disproving the popular belief that for a man to be a genius he must be big; but still the world will keep on believing it.—Kansas City Star.

Flyless City Can Be Made a Reality

ALTHOUGH the term "flyless city" generally has been used in a utopian sense, with no one considering seriously the possibility of a community being entirely rid of the insects, health authorities all over the country are beginning to believe that such a condition may be brought about in a city or town where everybody engages in starling or swatting the pest.

One of the cities which have conducted a vigorous warfare on the fly for several seasons is Cleveland. Health officials there have issued a bulletin in which they say that Cleveland will be entirely free from flies as soon as every citizen sees that his premises are maintained in a sanitary condition, that his garbage can is kept constantly covered, that his house is properly screened and that other simple suggestions for eradicating the fly are carried out.

U. S. REGULARS IN BIG FEATURE

Mackenzie Uses Cavalry in Stirring Scenes.

Donald Mackenzie, the Pathe producer, has just finished making a four-reel feature called "The Fortunes of Peter," which has all the earmarks of a notable success. Mr. Mackenzie had a cast of well-known players, most of whom have already achieved fame on the screen. George Probert, who won golden opinions as Oskar Von Guggen in "Innocent" and the Cadet in "The Lure," has the lead and this picture marks his debut before the camera. Mr. Probert confesses that his first two days of picture acting were little less than torture to him. The sight of the lens staring at him all the time was infinitely more dreadful than the batteries of critical eyes on a big "opening night."

Paul Panzer, after weeks of successful vaudeville touring, returns to the screen again in this picture. Mr. Panzer, it will be remembered, made himself the best-hated villain in the country through his work as "Owen" in "The Perils of Pauline."

Other members of the cast are Miss Alma Martin, a popular favorite in the "legitimate," Sam Ryan, who has been in many Pathe pictures, and Charles Bunnell, who was with the Pathe St. Augustine Company in the winter of 1913-14.

The picture required hundreds of supers and Mr. Mackenzie made arrangements for a troop of cavalry, regulars of the United States Army, to appear in a number of stirring scenes.

George Brackett Seitz wrote the scenario.

The housefly is the most dangerous animal in the world. It kills more human beings than all the beasts of prey and all the poisonous serpents together.

recalled. This letter was written last Saturday morning, after the attempt to destroy the capitol at Washington and before the attack on Mr. Morgan. In it Holt said:

"The steamer leaving New York for Liverpool on July 3 should sink, God willing, on the 7th. I think it is the Philadelphia or Saxonia, but am not quite sure as, according to schedule, these left the 3rd."

On the margin was written, "tear this off till after it happened."

The Minnehaha was scheduled to sail from New York on July 3, the day mentioned by Holt, but because of delay in getting her big cargo aboard did not finally get away until Sunday night, July 4. She is said to have passed out Sandy Hook at 11:30 o'clock that night, though no mention of her sailing was made in the usual shipping information and it was evident that some attempts at secrecy were being made.

PASSED AWAY AT HOME OF NIECE, MISS ANNA ADAMS, IN NORTH DIXON

Miss Marion Lucy Thatcher passed away this morning at 6 o'clock at the home of her niece, Miss Anna Adams, 408 E. Chamberlain street. She had been in failing health for some time. Miss Thatcher was born in Montrose, Pa., and was 92 years of age last April. She has been a resident of Dixon for a great many years and formerly resided on Peoria avenue.

The funeral arrangements have not yet been completed but it will likely not be held until Monday.

TO VISIT HOSPITAL

Misses Freda Schmidt, Ethel Deming and Alice Williamson went to Rochelle this morning to visit the Lincoln hospital there.

CIRCUS AT MENDOTA

Bill posters were in the city yesterday covering the bill boards with lithographs for the appearance of Ringling Bros. circus at Mendota two weeks from today, Friday, July 23. This will be the closest the circus will be to Dixon this year. An attempt had been made to exhibit here but suitable grounds could not be secured.

Mrs. Clevidence and Miss Noble were shopping in Rockford Thursday.

CHAPTER XV

Attacking the Metropolis.

ONLY the harbor defenses of Long Island sound were still speaking to each other. From the forts on Throgs Neck, in Westchester county, and from Fort Totten, on Long Island, the commanders at Forts Hamilton and Wadsworth in the Narrows received requests for more men. Large forces, said the sound defenses, were closing in rapidly to invest them on land from the rear. It would be an artillery and infantry fight in which the mammoth coast guns could take little part if any.

The commanders of the Narrows were helpless to give aid. The commanders of the Sandy Hook defenses were helpless. All the men, regulars and militia, of the coast artillery who could be obtained were not enough. Fort Hamilton, being on the Long Island shore itself, dared not denude it further than it had done. At any moment there might be an attack on it too.

It was about 1 o'clock in the morning when the people of northern Long Island and the inhabitants of the borough of the Bronx and Westchester county sprang from their beds in wild alarm. Without warning, as if a hurricane had struck with instant concentrated force, all their windows had crashed. Their walls were shaking and pictures and plaster falling. It was like no gunfire that men ever had imagined. It was not a series of explosions. It was like one explosion whose crescent violence would not divide.

Men on vantage points along the sound that night saw the attacking lines from end to end plainly as if it were day. So continuous was their fire that it painted their positions with broad, unwavering bands of flame. It needed not the star bombs and rockets that curved everywhere under the sky to fall glaring into the defenses. It needed not the magnesium lights that floated from parachutes dropped by aeroplanes. On both sides of the sound the night was a red sea.

Into the mortar pits and gun emplacements of the defenses, like a red surf from that red sea, beat the unending fire. Shrapnel that wailed like the bride of the storm and flew apart in the air flung bullets as if mines had burst inside of the defense. Eleven fuch shells that hammered into concrete facing and split it apart with the irresistible agony of their explosion! Five inch shell and solid projectile! Bombs from the air, and every agency that man had yet devised to wreck and destroy!

As suddenly as it had begun the fire stopped. The night became utterly still. The rockets ceased curving. But in all the defenses there shone white glares, from searchlights and magnesium flares, illuminating rushing masses of men who clambered over the ruins of guns and mounds, and took the works. There was none left to oppose them.

When the dawn came the watchers rubbed their eyes. The great defenses lay apparently unharmed. Their mounds and embankments betrayed nothing of the ruin that the night's battle had worked within. But against the brightening sky there arose a visible sign of what had been done. The flag of the coalition floated over them and greeted the American sunrise.

Within a few hours after dawn artillery began to move through Long Island's boulevards toward Brooklyn. North of the city the army began marching through the borough of the Bronx toward the Harlem river. Before noon guns were posted along the Harlem heights, on University heights, at High Bridge and down past the mouth of the Harlem river.

Through Hell Gate into the East river came a motley fleet—sound and river steamers captured at New Haven and Bridgeport, wall sided freighters and lighters, side wheelers and screw propellers, and a flotilla of motorboats, the pick of the beautiful little navy of pleasure that filled all the sound harbors.

This fleet anchored in a long line below Blackwell's island, close under the Manhattan shore. All the larger vessels had guns on their forward and upper decks. As soon as the craft had swung to the tide the weapons were pointed at the city.

Then the telephone bell in the city hall called the mayor again. The corps commander, speaking from temporary quarters in the University of New York buildings, announced that he wished to send commissioners into the city to treat with the authorities for the terms of capitulation. He desired that the mayor send an escort to meet them at the Lenox avenue bridge over the Harlem.

Arrived in the city hall, the commissioners presented a demand signed by the commander for unconditional surrender of the city. The mayor and his advisers read it and turned to the soldiers. "What does this mean?" asked the mayor, pointing to a clause that called for the surrender of all fortifications with troops and munitions of war. "We possess no fortifications."

worth, on the Narrows," answered the chief commissioner.

"But those are United States property," said the mayor. "We have no authority over them."

"Then I should advise you to consult with the commander of these places at once," answered the commissioner. "Their surrender is an indispensable condition in the terms of capitulation." The mayor reached for the telephone. "Stop all other business, however important," he said to the operator. "Connect me with the commander at Fort Hamilton."

His conversation with that officer was brief. "He declines absolutely to surrender any part of the defenses or other government property," he reported.

"Then, sir," said the officer, rising, "I regret to inform you that we shall shell the city. We are authorized to give you twenty-four hours. Precisely at the end of that time we shall order the firing to begin. I call your attention to the fact that our artillery as at present placed commands the borough of Manhattan to about fifty-ninth street and that our guns in Brooklyn command a great part of the most valuable sections of that borough. You will take note also that guns on the vessels anchored in the river can sweep both the New York and Brooklyn streets."

"But," exclaimed an old judge who was on the citizens' committee, "we are willing to surrender the city without opposition. As a matter of fact, it lies wide open to your entrance. You cannot possibly mean to bombard an undefended and unfortified town!"

Without hesitation the officer drew a paper from his pocket and presented it. It read: "The city of New York, having Forts Hamilton and Wadsworth not only within its harbor limits, but actually within its municipal limits, is plainly a fortified place under

A special train brought the deputations into Washington before daylight next morning. The New York men went at once to the White House, where they were received by the president, who had not been in bed. "You have no doubt that they mean to make good their threat of bombardment?" asked the president after receiving their report. "Then, gentlemen, there is only one action for this government to take." He sighed and echoed the refrain of all the past days—"There is nothing else that we can do."

An hour later the wires to New York, cleared by orders from the war department, carried a dispatch to the commanders at Fort Hamilton and Fort Wadsworth. It ordered them to surrender.

From his headquarters the enemy commander ordered detachments to go down the harbor in boats and occupy the captured defenses. Then he sent his troops forward into the city.

And now the New Yorkers, who had expected that their streets would be flooded by a great army, were amazed at the ease and simplicity with which the city fell to military control. Instead of brigades entering the city, there were not even regiments. Troops of cavalry, companies of infantry, single machine gun detachments, moving separately down separate avenues, with big intervals between them, were all the force that entered.

Some battalions of men and artillery passed down the river and landed in Brooklyn, some to occupy the navy yard and others to re-enforce the men who had come in through Long Island. But the army remained outside, holding the northern districts from the sound to the Hudson and guarding the Hudson river and Putnam valleys against surprise attack from the direction of Albany.

The officers in charge of the men

It was still easier to control the city from a military point of view. The citizens who had expected to see their streets commanded by cannon on turrets did not at first comprehend why there were hardly any of these to be seen, while machine gun detachments scattered and disappeared as soon as they got well into the town. Only gradually did the citizens discover that their big, sprawling metropolis was being held subject by a very simple utilization of the city's characteristic feature.

This feature was the skyscraper. To the eye of the soldier these high buildings were nothing so much as inviting and magnificent eminences for controlling the street valleys and their population below.

Four men with a machine gun and abundance of ammunition in one of these stone and steel summits could control more area than half a dozen heavy field gun batteries posted in the streets could command. These sentinal watchers were as aloof and as sure as fate. They could neither be rushed by a mob or sniped from concealment.

From the top of the Woolworth building two of the little guns pointed down into Broadway. Turned southward, they could sweep the town as far as the Battery. Eastward they could rain their steel jacketed bullets into the river front streets and over the two lower suspension bridges that cross the East river. Northward they had Broadway as far as Canal street under their fire.

They were supplemented by a gun on top of the great Municipal building. It held a good part of the crowded tenement house district of the lower east side under its zone of fire, notably the doubtful section of Cherry street and other areas known to the police.

On the tall towers of the suspension bridges themselves were other detachments with a gun each. The churches were not forgotten by the soldiers. The graceful steeple of Grace church, standing at an acute angle of Broadway so that it can be seen from far downtown, had been before men's eyes so long that they had ceased, almost, to note its soft beauty. Now they looked at it with a new and acute perception, for its steeple held a gun that pointed down Broadway, whose southern zone of fire would just about reach to where the northern zone of fire from the Woolworth building would end.

Trinity, too, had a gun in its tower, pointing down Wall street. From Grace church northward to Thirty-fourth street guns on the Flatiron building could reach any important street or any place where dangerous crowds might conceivably form. This eminence controlled both Madison and Union squares. The tower of Madison Square Garden, near by, also was armed.

The people knew that wherever they might move they were within the range of cannon that were loaded and ready. Their citizens' committee and their officials worked under guns. Every foot of their Great White Way could be changed into a "way of death" at a moment's notice.

Small need was there in New York city of the many placards and notices warning the people against disorder. Every man's eye was on every other man, and had one plotted mischief or rebellion there would have been a hundred witnesses ready to suppress him, to betray him—anything to prevent those steel devils in the city towers from setting death loose in the streets!

When frequently used, Parisian Sage simply works a miracle even if the hair is dandruffy, falling out, dull, thin, matted or stringy. One application stops itching head and removes all dandruff.

Since Parisian Sage, which can be obtained from Rowland Bros., or at any drug counter, never disappoints, it is no longer necessary for any woman to be humiliated because of thin, faded, or unattractive hair—and pretty hair certainly helps every woman to retain her charm and youthful appearance.

BUMPER CROPS IN PROSPECT

Visible Wheat Crop Grows 13,000,000 Bushels in June.

Washington, July 9.—Prospects of a billion bushel wheat crop this year were increased during last month. Basing its estimate on July 1 crop conditions, the department of agriculture placed the prospective total production at 963,000,000 bushels, compared with 950,000,000 bushels estimated from June 1 crop conditions.

Corn, the nation's greatest crop, should yield 2,814,000,000 bushels with continued favorable weather, the crop reporting estimates from this month's condition figures. That compares with 2,672,804,000 bushels harvested last year.

SALTS IF KIDNEYS OR BLADDER BOTHER

Harmless to flush Kidneys and neutralize irritating acids—Splendid for system.

Kidney and Bladder weakness result from uric acid, says a noted authority. The kidneys filter this acid from the blood and pass it on to the bladder, where it often remains to irritate and inflame, causing a burning, scalding sensation, or setting up an irritation at the neck of the bladder, obliging you to seek relief two or three times during the night. The sufferer is in constant dread, the water passes sometimes with a scalding sensation and is very profuse; again, there is difficulty in avoiding it.

Bladder weakness, most folks call it, because they can't control urination. While it is extremely annoying and sometimes very painful, this is really one of the most simple ailments to overcome. Get about four ounces of Jad Salts from your pharmacist and take a tablespoonful in a glass of water before breakfast, continue this for two or three days. This will neutralize the acids in the urine so it no longer is a source of irritation to the bladder and urinary organs which then act normally again.

Jad Salts is inexpensive, harmless, and is made from the acid of grapes and lemon juice, combined with lithia, and is used by thousands of folks who are subject to urinary disorders caused by uric acid irritation. Jad Salts is splendid for kidneys and causes no bad effects whatever.

Here you have a pleasant, effervescent lithia-water drink, which quickly relieves bladder trouble.

Illinois Town Grows Smaller. Virden, Ill., July 9.—Miss Eleanor Jones, census enumerator, reports a decrease in the population, which is due probably to the closing down of the mines here. The total count is 4,657.

It has been entertaining summer guests for forty years, and has lately been enlarged in capacity by the erection of a large modern building, fully equipped with every modern convenience, and affording dining room, assembly parlors, etc. This is an addition to the popular cottage plan, and adds to the previous popular attractions of the older system. The hotel and cottages are in extensive grounds, delightfully shaded by large oaks, and being away from the river is most especially desirable for families with children. The location is in the edge of Kilbourn on a pretty resident street, but a pleasant walk from the river and depot, and with regular free bus and carriage service to these points. The large hotel is not surpassed in this locality in point of modern style and comfort. The annex cottages and grounds make it altogether everything that anybody would desire. The test of efficiency is in the table. This hotel is especially noted for its excellent table board. Fresh butter, eggs, vegetables and fruit are supplied daily from the farm, and its preparation by a professional chef is perfect; chicken dinners twice a week.

DRIVE TEUTONS BACK
12 MILES RUSS CLAIM

Berlin, However, Claims Muscovites Are Fleeing.

London, July 9.—From a victory-flushed, confident, powerful army, sweeping everything before it in its triumphant march through Galicia, the Austrian division of the invading forces under Archduke Ferdinand has been forced to assume the defensive and to pause in their rush toward Lublin, according to official reports from army headquarters received here.

So great has been the weight of reinforcements brought up by Russia in the territory between the Vistula and Bug rivers that the Teutonic drive not only has been checked, but the czar's troops have carried the fight to them and driven the invaders back twelve miles from the heights of Wilkolaz.

All of this, however, is discounted by a dispatch from Berlin, which states that the Russians are making a last stand, their attacks invariably have been repulsed and the fresh troops brought into Krasnik and Berserabia, evidently are being used to cover up a general retreat.

Moreover, it is claimed that the Russians are fleeing in wild disorder and officers are directing machine gun fire on their own retreating troops in a wild effort to check their flight.

U. S. TAKES SAYVILLE RADIO

Plant Owned by Germany Constant Menace to Neutrality.

Washington, July 9.—The navy department took over the wireless station at Sayville, L. I., which was the only remaining privately owned and privately operated agency of communication between the United States and Germany. The step was taken by Secretary Daniels at the request of the department of commerce. It was said to be necessary to preserve the neutrality of the United States. Secretary Redfield pointed out that the plant was really German owned, that it was completed since the war began, that it communicates with points in Germany and that German officers of the navy and marine were kept stationed there. The submarine situation undoubtedly led to the action.

It has been thought for some time that the wireless plant at Sayville has been communicating with German submarines giving them information regarding sailing of vessels from American ports on which the submarines might direct their movements and this of course was a violation of neutrality.

3-STORY CAKE FOR JOHN D.

Police Watch Doner Whose Former Visit Landed Him in Asylum.

Tarrytown, N. Y., July 9.—Anton Von Mings, blacksmith and baker of Chicago, brought a three-story cake to John D. Rockefeller's place on the occasion of the oil mar's seventy-sixth birthday. A guard received the cake gingerly at the gate.

Von Mings explained that on a previous visit he was sent to the Poughkeepsie insane asylum.

RECRUITING FOR

British Ambassador Protests Action of U. S.

MONTENEGRINS ARE INDICTED

Five Bills Returned Against Agents of British and Balkan Governments at Chicago and San Francisco—Washington Sees Difference Between Acts of Reservists and Recruits.

Washington, July 9.—A difference of opinion has arisen between the British embassy and the United States government in regard to the action of federal authorities in interfering with the passage of volunteers for the English and Montenegrin armies across the United States en route to the theaters of war.

Sir Cecil Spring-Rice, the British ambassador, has asked the state department to inform him what distinction it draws between the return of reservists to the colors and the departure of volunteers to serve in the armies of their choice. It is understood that the ambassador contended that if German, Austrian and Turkish reservists were permitted by the United States to return to their native countries for military service the return of British reservists to England ought also to be allowed.

It is known that state department officials here consider that the distinction between the two classes is quite clear. Information gathered by agents of the department of justice tend to show that a definite program of enlisting British and Montenegrins and others for services with the allied forces was being carried on here by agents, though not officials, of the British government. This is held directly contrary to the neutrality laws. With regard to reservists, American officials hold it is no violation of law for a man whose name is being carried on the military lists of his country to return to that country to perform military duty.

Montenegrins Indicted.

Chicago, July 9.—Five Montenegrins, including three commissioners of the king of Montenegro, and a former charge de affaires at Constantinople, were named in an indictment returned by the federal grand jury, charging conspiracy to violate the neutrality laws of the United States by sending reservists to Europe.

They are: Jovo Matanovich, a commissioner and former charge de affaires at Constantinople; Savo Gjorashkovich, a commissioner and officer of the Montenegrin Red Cross; B. Martanovich, Anto V. Seferovich and P. M. Lubrich.

Matanovich and Lubrich are under arrest in Portland, Ore.; Gjorashkovich and Martanovich are under arrest in Bisbee, Ariz., and Seferovich is in custody in New York.

The indictment charges that the five men and others unknown to the grand jurors conspired to hire and retain more than 5,000 other persons, resident in the United States, to be enlisted and entered as soldiers in the service of Montenegro.

Indict Twenty in San Francisco.

San Francisco, July 9.—More than twenty indictments charging various violations of neutrality were voted here by the federal grand jury. Recruiting for the British army, and furnishing supplies to ships of war, are the offenses charged, except in those cases which charge conspiracy to these ends.

Money for the whole business, it was learned on good authority, had been traced back to New York by agents of the department of justice, funds for both British and German activities here emanating from that source.

TWO AMERICANS ARE KILLED

They Were Aboard the Anglo-Californian Which Escaped Submarine.

Washington, July 9.—Two Americans, Richard Martin, either of Chelsea, Mass., or Providence, R. I., and John Mahoney, thought to have lived at 321 Third avenue, New York, were killed by the shell fire of the German submarine which attacked the British ship Anglo-Californian.

News to this effect reached the state department from Consul General Skinner at London, who transmitted a report from the American consul at Queenstown. Eight members of her crew and her captain were killed and eight were wounded in the attack, which occurred July 4. The Anglo-Californian escaped.

Iowa Fruit Crop 44 Per Cent Short.

Des Moines, July 9.—The average condition of the fruit in Iowa this year promises 56 per cent of a full crop, according to the July report of the state horticulturist. This is 1 per cent higher than shown in the June report and 16 per cent higher than shown in the July report of 1914.

The Telegraph has employed the services of Geo. Murray as country circulator. John Thome still retains his position as solicitor and circulator for this paper.

You can believe the testimony of your own townspeople. They tell it for the benefit of you who are suffering. Follow this Dixon citizen's advice and give Doan's a chance to do the same for you.

Mrs. M. Y. Cox, 614 Van Buren avenue, Dixon, says: "I had a dull heavy ache in the small of my back and it was painful for me to straighten up again. I also had headaches and frequent dizzy spells. I used only one box of Doan's Kidney Pills and they removed the trouble."

Naming the Redwood Tree

The giant redwood tree, which now grows only in California, is called the sequoia—and this is the reason why: In the very long ago there once lived a Cherokee Indian named Sequo Yah, who invented an Indian alphabet. He not only invented it, but he taught it to the other Cherokees by writing it out on leaves, and this peculiar form of literature was in general use in that tribe long before the white man knew of it. In 1828 the missionaries adopted it, and utilized it in a magazine which they published for the red men.

Sequo Yah was banished from Alabama with the other members of his tribe, and settled in New Mexico, where he died in 1843.

In 1846, when Endlicher was preparing his synopsis of the cone-bearing trees, he heard of the Indian literary genius, Sequo Yah, and decided to dedicate to his memory the great redwood tree of California. Thus he called it sequoia.

A peculiarity about this tree is that in former years it was found all over the world, but now grows only in California.—The Popular Magazine.

White pine and yellow pine are the woods most used for boxes.

A Telephone Telltale

The good old evening entertainment of listening on the telephone line on rural party telephone is soon to be a thing of the past.

How does this indicator tell who is butting in?

Why, by means of musical notes. Every telephone is to be equipped with an indicator. Every indicator is equipped with a disc with teeth. This is set in motion the moment the receiver is taken off the hook. The teeth of the disc pick up musical notes from keynote tongues in the instrument. The high and low notes correspond to the short and low notes peculiar to the telephone that is being tampered with. Thus, if Bill Jones' ring is a short and two longs, and you are talking business, and suddenly hear a high and two low notes over the wire, you will know that Bill Jones is rubbering in your business.

"Bill Jones, you get off that line," you can shout to him. It is then optional with Bill whether he will get off the line or fight you a duel the next time you meet him. But you have the dope on him.

But the indicator does even more wonderful things than this.

In the first place, when you call Sam Smith, with Smith's two short and two long rings, Smith takes down the receiver, and immediately you hear two high and two low musical notes in your receiver. You know at once it is Smith and not that Buttnisks Jones who is at the other end. You go ahead to talk business.

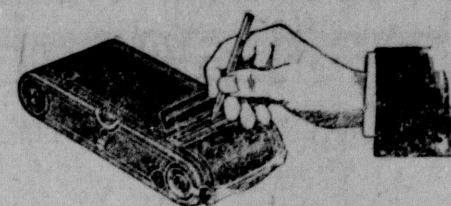

Then the indicator gives the length of the conversation, so that one may comply with the rules of the company. When the receiver comes off the hook it sets the indicator into operation. At the end of four minutes it runs down. Then it automatically disconnects you. That's a hint that you have talked long enough for a mere visit. If it is business, however, and you want to prolong the conversation, all you have to do is to press down the lever and the spring is wound up for another four minutes.

Again, by this means one call tell just how long he is using the long distance phone and does not need to watch the clock or ask central to call him down when he talks too long.

The indicator will also register the number of hours in the day, the month or year the phone is used in a given home. The time when the receiver is removed and replaced is registered so that it is possible to tell approximately how long the average conversation on a given phone has been. This is of immense advantage to the trouble man when the patrons deny they ever did anything but obey the rules scrupulously. He looks at the indicator and reads the entire history of the use and abuse of that phone. Then he talks from knowledge to the persons complaining of trouble.--Philadelphia Record.

The Greedy Birds

Birds are busy creatures, for all they find so much time to sing, and they pay a great deal more attention to their stomachs than the poets ever mention. You will come closer to the facts in those government bulletins which report the finding of two thousand mosquitos in the stomach of a single marten, and similar interesting discoveries, than in the poet's pages. I don't know that I have ever seen it computed how many raspberries a catbird can eat, but I know it is more than I care to spare from the vines in my own garden, where a pair of catbirds who nest each year in red-osier dogwood beneath my study window love to feed. Out in our abandoned clearing, however, I do not begrudge them the berries, which grow in a corner where the farmer made his last cutting of timber. Many a time I have lain on the ground on the slope in fruiting season and watched a catbird darting back and forth to these vines, as if his appetite was insatiable, his trim gun-metal body taking the sun on head or wing-tip. Presently I would get up and stroll over to gather some berries for myself. You would have thought a band of human pickers had been there, to see all the whitish, thimble-shaped hulls hanging denuded from their stems. Even as I would put out my hand for a red fruit there would come from the thicket close by a mew of protest and an angry flutter of wings. Though, in my own experience, the catbirds are most addicted to raspberries, the thrushes, orioles, robins, dickers and cedar waxwings also eat them, and doubtless other birds besides.--Harper's Magazine.
